NOVEMBER CPI 5.6% OVER PREVIOUS YEAR

The Consumer Price Index rose 0.3 per cent in November, 1970, to 137.8 (1957-59=100), the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported last week. The increase in October was 0.6 percent.

The November change was moderated by a substantial decline in food prices; lower gasoline prices also contributed. Higher prices for consumer service, apparel, houses, and cars were responsible for most of the increase.

The November CPI was 5.6 percent above a year ago.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the November rise was also 0.3 percent. The rise was less than the 0.5 percent increases in September and October and in line with increases recorded in the summer months. Food prices declined following increases in the preceding two months and, on average, were at the same level as they were six months ago. Prices of nonfood commodities rose less than in the previous two months.

TELSTAR TEACHER WORKING WITH BOSTON VICE SQUAD

Richard McCann, chairman of the social studies department at Telstar Regional High School, left for Boston Sunday to spend a week observing the techniques of the Boston Vice Squad in dealing with drug abuse.

Mr. McCann was chosen to make the trip by the board of directors of S. A. D. 44 because of his interest in the area of drug abuse and because of his prior experience in law enforcement.

One of the courses he teaches at the high school involves constitutional and criminal law, and he feels that the excursion to Boston should better equip him to answer questions which arise in classroom discussions.

In addition to studying such things as narcotics identification with the Boston police, Mr. McCann also will attempt to learn what Boston school officials are doing about the increasing problem of drug abuse from an educational point of view.

Mr. McCann acknowledged that from a law enforcement standpoint the problems of drug abuse which one might encounter in the Oxford County area are different from what might be expected in an urban area such as Boston.

"However," he added, "I think we do have a potentially serious problem here in the Oxford County area in terms of drug usage and drug abuse."

Upon returning from Boston, Mr. McCann will make a report to the administrators and board of directors of the school district.

PARENTS — DO YOU CARE?

The Parent Teachers' Forum (formerly PTA) will meet on Wednesday, Jan. 20, at 7:30 in the Crest Park School. Due to a favorable response from parents after the November meeting, the program will be a continuation of the discussion about education in our schools, with the hope that more parents and teachers will attend. PTF is the place to voice opinions and concerns of parents and teachers.

It would be greatly appreciated if teachers will attend and bring their science books.

The Family Night Fair will be discussed, but no committees will be formed until February.

The basketball program for boys in grades three through six is underway. Approximately 50 boys meet twice a week at the Gould Academy field house with Charlie Ilard.

GREENWOOD CITY — ANDOVER-E. ANDOVER

— Mrs. Collette Morgan, Corres. —

As dark was creeping up to our door Monday evening, we took our last outdoor observation. It was warm but with mist swirling ghostly and sluggish around rocks, shrubs and trees. There was a high sighing sound in the sky and in a short time steel-like rain and heavier clouds closed the day. There was nothing more than a dark blue penetrated by an occasional glow of ear lights, creeping home from work.

So once again we realize that winter has many dimensions. We knew what morning would bring; and I did, key roads and trucks, crawling vehicles. The less storm had struck. We watched the wires coat and glow, steadily growing thicker, sagging between the poles. They glittered even in the murky light beneath the sunless sky. The weeds, sprays and twigs above the snow all appeared to be encased in glass. Some were bearded in icicles.

Stepping out to listen I could hear at times the rattling of ice-sheathed branches or the crack like the clashing of sabers. Then quiet. I was reminded of Katherine Edelman's verse: "Winter Music":

Now under paler sun the leafless trees,

Creased from night with winter

ice and snow,

Makes bell-like music, as with morning breeze.

Bare fingers, winter-dark move to and fro,

Like harpist, touching waiting strings at will.

Small chimneys replacing summer

notes now still.

My chickadees, loyal as always flaw in for breakfast. One gave us a good laugh. As he lit on the ladder rusty rung encased with ice his little feet skidded and spread. Surprised he took off. That dance step was just too much before breakfast!

At about 10:30, as I was facing the window toward the south, busy with pe making, the sun burst through, dazzling my eyes.

Hairy Woodpecker gave a machine-gun burst of notes. He, too, noticed the sudden change.

The sun streaming across everything glittered; fascinating and exquisite. Every particle of the valley was flashing out jet lights. It was a world new to the ear as well as the eye. All harshness of outlines had disappeared. Everything was smooth with softer contours.

The giant evergreens, draped with ice gleamed on the slopes. It was too beautiful to believe and too fragile to last, treacherous for travel, but for the eye a fairyland.

Winter's jewels, artistically placed on every form and object reached across the valley, over the woods,

UPTON

— Mrs. Arline Bernier, Corres. —

Carleen Hotham and Irving Cornish of Lewiston were week end guests of Edna Seward. Avery Angeline and Thomas Lombard called on Edna Sunday when they came over East B Hill with snow machines.

Airman Andre Bernier went to Portland Monday to go to the Azores where he will be stationed for about two years. His wife, Flossie, and his father, went to Portland with him. Some folks who feed birds during the winter have commented on the scarcity of all the species including jays.

Judy Judkins and children of Bangor were guests of Fred and Bea Judkins over the week end. Bea returned to the hospital when Judy went back to Bangor.

Lucien, Annie and Arthur Bernier of Lunenburg Vt. were Sunday guests of his parents.

Mr. Cummings of Lancaster, N. H., was a supper and evening guest at the Goodrum home.

Joy Yarnell and children were in town a few days.

The Sidney Abbotts, Nikki and Sonya Abbott and Camella Buck visited relatives Thursday.

Bea Judkins came home Tuesday. Saturday she fell and injured her hand, requiring medical treatment and is with her daughter, Judy Brooks, for a few days.

The Bucks went to Vermont for the long week end; the Goodrums spent several days of vacation in Gorham with relatives.

Edna Seward and Chris Murphy went to Rumford Tuesday for check-ups. Colon Fuller went with Lucille Lergesse to Bethel Tuesday for a check-up.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mitchell and grandson, Ricky, of Sebago Lake, were in town to check on their camp. They are leaving for Florida for a visit with friends.

The electricity was off for about two and a half hours Tuesday night. Leslie Fuller has not been feeling well recently.

Leslie Fuller has not been feeling well recently.

Several people have been chopping ice and shoveling snow from roofs for themselves and the campers or other people unable to do the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gerardin of Lewiston called on us Tuesday evening.

I went to Auburn, Mass., for a holiday party for Artex instructors Saturday. I was in high spirits when I got on the Maine Turnpike because for the first time I had come through Massachusetts without once wandering off the planned route and traveling a lot of extra miles to get home. I thought I'd be funny and stop at a hostess' home in Bethel to give her one of the new pattern books.

(She had said she wanted one the instant I got there.) So I got stuck in some messy snow in her driveway about 2 a. m. and found I didn't even have a shovel in the car. By this time I was kicking myself mentally and not feeling "smart" any more. I managed to get the car out—and left the book inside her storm door! The party was fine and I came home with some great new ideas for the "Artex Artists" in the area.

— Mrs. Olive Davis, Corres. —

All is calm on the South Woodstock front. News will be scarce I fear but here is a little.

Ellis Davis celebrated his birthday on the seventh when Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bryant came down to spend the afternoon. He did his usual good turn, meaning Les as he shoveled snow off our flat roof and made a drain through the ice which had built up in the gutter. We played a few games of 63. Of course we ladies, being ladies, let the boys

SENIOR CITIZENS ENJOY MEETING TUESDAY
The kind Methodist women anticipated the bone chilling north wind and prepared a savory noon meal of hot beef stew Tuesday for 40 members and guests of the Senior Citizens at the Congregational Church.

W. S. C. S. members cooking and serving at tables decorated with low arrangements of Princess Pine and red berries were Annie Gordon, Sarah Stevens, Rachel Mackay, Hulda Stevens, Rita Dunn, Barbara Greenleaf and Marjorie Butters.

Nellie Cummings joined the Seniors. A letter from Mrs. Tom Brown in Florida was read. Alice Taylor who is visiting at Penikese sent a generous donation and to include a birthday cake for the February meeting. After an absence of long duration the group was glad to see Ola Morrill and Maud Danforth.

The month's birthdays honored were Madge Vogt, Gladys Kilgore, Jennie Coburn, Leona Curtis, Florence Thurston and Rena Abbott.

Welcome visitors for afternoon group singing and an invigorating talk by Mary Worthley were Elsie Waldron, Sabina Bigelow, Janet Stowell, Sarah Schmidt, Barbara Douglas and Barbara H. Brown.

Miss Worthley has wit, a fine presence, long experience, and wisdom in social, religious and practical life of our State. She spoke with compassion and knowledge of the thousands of Senior Citizens, their financial hardships in many instances and their need of better homes. She outlined possible plans for effective organization and stressed the urgency of every vote. Senior Citizens will profit from her suggestions. Miss Worthley is editor of ECOOP—a paper for the State Council of Older People.

MOST BLUE CROSS/SHIELD SUBSCRIBERS TO BE EFFECTED BY INCREASE

A rate increase for Blue Cross and Blue Shield non-group and standard group contract-holders, including the Companion Plan to Medicare, will become effective April 1, according to Richard F. Nelson, President of Associated Hospital Service of Maine.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield have suffered underwriting losses over the past year. Projected heavier losses for 1971 according to Mr. Nelson, are the reasons for the increases.

Effective at the same time will be an additional benefit to all subscribers of contract coverage of 121 days per admission eliminating all "partial benefit" days. In the past, the first 31 days were known as the major benefit period, the next 90 as the extended benefit period during which time the allowances were less liberal.

In addition broadened benefits with more emphasis on improvement in ambulatory privileges are being developed as well as coverage in extended care units.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield rates have remained constant, since 1963 when an increase was initiated to cover a two- or three-year period. A scheduled change in 1966 became unnecessary due to Medicare when all persons over 65 received coverage. Elimination of this "high-risk group" from coverage paid for at the same rates as paid by other subscribers enabled the 1963 rates to stand.

The April rate increase will affect only non-group subscribers, including coupon book holders and those billed on a quarterly basis, and standard group subscribers who do not have "special benefits" furnished under a master contract with employers.

Blue Shield changes for subscribers with "special benefit" Blue Cross coverage will be effective on master contract anniversary dates as they occur.

Because of the long time span since the last rate change, Nelson said that the increases are not evenly distributed among the various levels of coverage and types of contracts. Generally, in terms of percentages, the lower levels of coverage are being increased more than the higher levels. As an example, an individual subscribing for $9 a day hospital room allowance is presently paying $2.65 monthly. Under the increase, he will pay $4 monthly, an increase of $1.35 or 40 per cent.

An individual subscribing for $54 daily room allowance presently pays $14.10 a month. Under the increase he would pay $16 cents more, $14.50 monthly, an increase of a little over two per cent.

Nelson said that this difference exists because subscription fees established at the later dates were figured high enough to take care of increased costs, while the older fees have not provided an adequate margin to take care of higher costs for X-ray, laboratory and other services which have been increasing at about 15 per cent per year.

The Blue Cross and Blue Shield Companion Plan 1 was originally rated at $4.50 a month in January 1960, the rate was reduced to $4. Since that time the government has increased the co-insurance features several times and these increases have been absorbed by Blue Cross at no additional cost. This, along with other liberalizations that Associated Hospital Service has made in the contractual structure, necessitates the return to the $4.50 per month rate, effective April 1.

Nelson termed Maine's position among other New England Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans, as relatively stable. "We have learned that the most serious financial mistake a Plan can make is to fail to anticipate the need for more income in time to prevent a stable drain on reserves. By failing to act in time, it is always necessary to ask for larger increases than would otherwise have been needed. Maine has managed to keep a stable reserve position and prevented the need for a monstrous increase."

NATURE OFTEN PREDICTS A HEART ATTACK

(Editor's Note: The Maine Hospital and the Maine Heart Association have designated January as "Operation Heart" month, and the following is another in the series of articles to improve the public's understanding of heart attacks, how they can be prevented and what to do when they occur.)

Nature often predicts a heart attack. By producing a chest pain resulting from a condition called angina pectoris, she often warns a potential victim days, weeks, months or even years in advance. But given proper care—medication and the right diet, for example—the patient may never suffer the heart attack. And in more severe cases, modern surgery may alleviate the condition.

An insufficient supply of blood bearing oxygen to the heart causes angina pectoris, Latin for chest pain.

What reduces the initial blood supply is the narrowing of one of the three major coronary arteries which carry blood to the heart. Fatty materials accumulate along the interior walls of arteries, building up until they reduce the diameter of the passageway.

Even with a narrowed coronary artery a man may theoretically escape the pain of angina indefinitely. As long as the reduced supply of oxygen reaching the heart remains sufficient, he escapes angina.

Anything that increases the heart's need for oxygen beyond the supply will cause the pain. An increased heart rate makes the heart demand more oxygen.

Exercise, excessive emotion, breathing very cold air, overeating—all these boost the heart rate. If emotion sets off the fast beat, relaxing will slow the heart and eliminate the pain of angina. If eating sets off the heart, lying down will eliminate the resulting pain. Stopping the exercise does away with pain from that source. Coming in from the cold removes the pain when it is cold air that agitates the heart.

Chest pain arising from angina may resemble, or exactly mimic, that of a heart attack.

Duration of the pain is the difference.

If the pain fails to disappear two or three minutes after lying down following a meal, or two or three minutes after exercising, the odds suggest a heart attack.

Someone under a physician's care for angina condition might take a nitroglycerin tablet to relieve the pain. Failure to gain quick relief also suggests a heart attack.

Angina attacks tend to come more often and become more severe before a heart attack. Because they are often good predictors of such an event, anginalike pains should be reported by patients the first time they notice them.

Reporting angina lacks the dire urgency of reporting a heart attack itself. Even so, a call to the doctor within a day of the first suspected angina is considered important.

With appropriate treatment, a heart attack can be delayed completely, or at least treated promptly and efficiently. The average patient may live years after developing angina.

Further information on heart attack indications will be reported weekly during the month of January. Interested citizens may also obtain more details in a variety of pamphlets now available in a lobby display at Rumford Community Hospital.

Letters to the Editor
8 January, 1971

To the Editor:
I thought your "1970 in Review" article in the January 7th issue of the "Citizen" was well done, and enjoyed scanning 1970 in retrospect. I did find one error under March. Your article stated:

"Western Maine champion Gould Academy was defeated 66-64 by Jonesport-Bethel in the State Class 'S' title game."

Gould was indeed defeated, but the score was 66-64, not 66-64.

Respectfully,
Samuel Bigelow
Jan. 12, 1971

Dear Editor:
Perchance you will be good enough to open the columns of your esteemed paper to the following:

Governor Sargent's vigorous message, with its optimism, with its departure from the conventional, his philosophical approach to his responsibilities was like a whiff of fresh air.

His promise of governmental reorganization towards fairness towards appointments to public office exclusively on the basis of talent and fitness for the job—and not because of allegiance to the party—is a step not only towards improvement of public service in the State, but towards eliminating dishonesty in high places everywhere!

Kings were decapitated for bestowing favors and honors upon their courtiers and courtesans. While democratic presidents have for generations been giving the highest posts to people who helped in the election campaign, regardless of their qualifications or lack of them, for the assigned duty. And so down the line, Secretaries, Governors, Mayors, etc. had their own satellites, sycophants upon whom they bestowed their own favors at public expense.

A charming little modeste, elevated to the status of Mistress de Pompadour, did no harm to the nation; she might have helped a little her poor family. But if a Secretary of the Interior authorizes the construction of a dam which destroys the earth for all generations to come, no charm in the world can make good the damage.

The idea of appointing unpaid officials to prestigious posts is beautiful! More power to you, Governor, and to your appointees! And let us hope we shall have more of that! When Pericles became ruler of Greece, 500 B. C. he imposed strict rationing on his own household, so that if the Treasury of Athens be empty, (which it frequently was) he would be able to subsidize it from his private means. History has it that when his beautiful sociable wife and a message to his office that there was not enough meat to go around for her guests to the important dinner, his reply was: "Rationing must be adhered to."

A new era is being ushered into the governorship! Let us hope it will also into the Presidency!

Now that our new year has arrived we find that our Sun is at its closest distance to the Earth. This event occurred on Jan. 4 and is called Perihelion. The sun is rising now about 1 1/4 minutes earlier per day.

Next we find that two of our neighbor planets, Mercury and Venus, will be at their greatest distance from the sun as seen by a person on earth. This event will occur for Mercury on the morning of Jan. 19, when Mercury will be above the eastern horizon at about 5:30 a. m. For Venus it will occur on the following morning, Jan. 20, when it will be above the eastern horizon at about 3:30 a. m.

You will be able to see it at about 6:30 p. m. at approximately 65° above the southern horizon.

STATE C. D. ISSUES BULLETIN ON BLIZZARD PRECAUTIONS

Blizzard Precautions, a bulletin on coping with severe snow storms during Maine's winter season, was issued this week by the State Civil Defense and Public Safety agency, Augusta.

One of a series of disaster warning articles issued by the CD organization, it is designed to prepare Maine people better for survival in extreme natural weather conditions.

State Director Emillon A. Levesque said. He added that it deals with suggestions for activity both before and during a blizzard and is part of the CD program which stressed precautions for natural disasters, as well as nuclear.

The announcement stated that more detailed information may be secured by telephone call or letter to local or county Civil Defense directors.

METHODIST WOMEN IN ANNUAL OBSERVANCE

Members of Women's Society of Christian Service of the United Methodist Church of Bethel will participate this week in one of the most important annual observances of United Methodist women throughout the United States.

The Call to Prayer and Self-Denial focuses on prayer, a deepened spiritual life, a guided mission study, and a much needed self-denial offering for special mission work in the United States and around the world. More than 1.5 million women in 38,000 societies and guilds in all 50 states will join in the observance.

The Call, inspired by the needs and the opportunities to be made possible by self-denial gifts, is sponsored by the Women's Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions. The Women's Division, one of the four major units of the Board of Missions is the national body through which all local women's societies and guilds function.

The major event of the observance are the Quiet Day, prayer, meditation, quiet meal, and an interpretation of the mission projects for which the special offering will be made.

The Call to Prayer and Self-Denial for women of the Bethel Church will be celebrated at 1:30 o'clock Jan. 21 at the home of Mrs. Richard Littlefield, South Bethel.

Each year the Women's Division designates mission projects in the United States and overseas to receive the special offering which is given as part of the Call to Prayer and Self-Denial. This year the projects chosen because of urgent needs are: (1) Training Laidy for Ministries in Social Change Overseas; and (2) Deaconess Pensions in the United States.

Ralph Nader, well known consumer protection advocate, will be the featured speaker at the 11st commencement exercises at the Orono campus of the University of Maine, Saturday Jan. 23, at 7:45 p. m.

Nader, who first came into prominence as author of the book, "Unsafe at Any Speed", which indicted the automobile industry for neglecting to build safe automobiles, was the first choice as speaker by the executive committee of the UMO senior class.

Approximately 300 persons will be candidates for degrees at the ceremonies which will be held at Memorial Gymnasium. Among the 300 are three doctor of education degree candidates and eight doctoral candidates in other areas.

BRAZILIAN CHILD SPONSORED BY TELSTAR F. H. A. — The Future Homemakers of America Club at Telstar Regional High School is sponsoring a little girl from Flamengo, Brazil. Her name is Vany Maria de Oliveira. She is eight years old and will be starting school soon.

Vany was born into a very unhappy household, for the father was unemployed and one day—perhaps in despair over his inability to support a wife and family—he simply disappeared and never returned. The mother then struggled to take care of her dependents but she needed additional aid, for she was unable to provide properly for them. When the case came to the F.H.A.'s attention, it was arranged that the lass should receive assistance for schooling. The club's sponsorship will mean so much to her.

Miss Hatch, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hatch of Islesboro, attended Islesboro elementary and junior high schools and graduated from Gould Academy in June, 1967.

The memorial fund in her honor was established through contributions of some 125 individuals as well as eight organized civic, school and church groups at Islesboro, Bethel and Orono. The Distinguished Maine Scholar award which Miss Hatch would have received at UMO for the fall of 1967 constitutes a part of the Memorial Fund.

In Loving Memory of Walter W. Bailey who passed away January 6, 1964

Softly the stars are gleaming upon a precious grave
Where sleepeth without dreaming one we loved but could not save
May you always walk in sunshine and God's love around you flow
For the happiness you gave us no one will ever know

It broke our hearts to lose you but you did not go alone
For part of us went with you the day God called you home
No longer here your life to share But in our hearts you're always there

Today recalls fond memories of a loved one gone to rest
And those who think of him today are those who loved him best
Always thinking of you dear and our hearts are filled with pain
Oh, this earth would be a heaven could we hear your voice again

My tears I shed in silence for your memory will remain
In my heart I'll always have you till in heaven I call your name
To hear your voice to see your smile To sit with you and talk a while
To be together the same old way
